

DEPRESSION SYSTEM

This project is about comparing depression problem with circulatory system. Alike our blood that purified at our heart and circulate around our body then being purify again and again, our feeling also purified at our home then go through daily life. Our daily life sometime may make us felt depress and gain more anxiety but when we arrived home every sadness and depression will gone with a wind.

We spend most of our life-time in work and school. I compare it as brain because we have to use our brain while studying and working.

I compare our heart as our house front door and our lung as our home. Since lung is where gas exchange happen and purify blood, similar to our remedy feeling when we at home.

I compare those complex and never ending transportation system as our devious intestine.

"Home is where we inhale happiness, exhale depression."

ART NOUVEAU FOREST

Art Nouveau is my favorite era in history of art. In this project, I research about the difference between ordinary curves and Art Nouveau curves. Then, I created a Chamchuri tree by using the research result. This artwork's function is making a Art Nouveau forest by using shadow that made by the center light bulb. The artwork base can rotate and user can freely move trees so user can custom-made their own Art Nouveau forest.

I research about Art Nouveau curves. First, I choose Art Nouveau art I like then draft the unique curves. The counter clock wise curves is grey and the clock wise curves is orange. Then, I use both curves to create Chamchuri tree.

THE LITTLE ONE'S JOURNEY

This project is about describing Thailand education by comparing with a character name 'The little one' and their journey. They have to climb the world that in a shape of mountain. Their hood represent their personal interests. Their coat represent their self-confident. Their boots represent their action. Their clothes will be teared, punctured and destroyed by those drilling machines, mountain sharpness, and sharp buildings (time-saver one) with consent or forced by the big one. Through their journey, the little one will gain more gold that represent their knowledge resources for their future. Then, they have to spend it at the market on pieces of cloth to repair their clothes. After they got their masks at the last shop of the market, they will transform into the big one then they will go down the mountain to control their next generation.

HIKING THE DECEPTION

This project is continue from 'The Little One's journey' project. I creating the world in 3D model by using papercut technic. The world is in a shape of mountain. Those steepness and surface sharpness increase by depending on height. The lowest floor represents elementary school. The second floor represents middle school. The third floor represents high school and the top of the mountain represents university. The big one and The little one believe that the top is the most success point of their life. However, it is just the beginning because the real university is the market behind the fake castle

ME

This project is about telling my feeling. In my opinion, to tell someone what I feel is very hard and if I tell them directly, it might be a little awkward. I decided to use my drawing to tell them with my easiest drawing style so when I'm sad I can quickly draw. After I drew, my sad feeling felt a lot better.

The color I used is red, yellow and blue by using triad color harmonies. Red is for a cause of the feeling.

ALTISSA BOX

This project is about creating a Final Fantasy XV artbook box. The box I created is perfectly fit to the official artbook. There is two artworks on the box, which is a portrait of gmae characters and the map of Altissia, which is the famous town in the game. With the idea of papercutting. This box can transform the map of Altissia in the 3D model by cutting those building outlines and fold it up. After collectors cut and folded the cover, they still can put their artbook inside the box.

K O D R U M K A R N

Today, many people struggle with noise pollution that made by 'dek waen' so this project is about creating subculture in teenage society. This subculture is about making them believe and persuade others that they have to compete about their speed not about their motor sound and compete about how cool their party not about how loud their music.

This subculture mascot is flies to show that its not cool and annoy-

ONE YEAR IS NOT THAT LONG

As I exchanged in Russia, I had met a lot of people, who come from different cultures and countries, such as, Italy, France, Germany, Slovakia, Japan, Hungary, Russia etc. Even-though we don't speak English or Russian fluently, we still can be good friends. This project is about drawing my friends to capture their 2019 faces with my 2019 drawing skill,. Then, I made a postcard by using my own style of drawing. This will be a memorable piece of our relationship because we will grow up and see how long had our relationship been to show that friends always bring happiness to our life

TANNED

Tanned is a brand that make a clothes that is the combination of Thai-traditional outfits and casual fashion. Nowadays, a lot of people want to keep Thai-traditional outfits that is very cultural value exist but because of weather and modern-time don't support the idea so Tanned, a brand which kept Thai styles but can wear everyday and comfortable, will perfectly support those idea

This project is about Tanned brand identity. I design one of Tanned pants that is the transform from Chong Kraben. It keep the form but change its fabric and add a little twist.

MIND MONSTERS

This project is about creating monsters that represent my negative feeling. My feeling includes a fear of choosing wrong decision, a fear of leaving, a fear of not being a part of society, a fear of stared at, a fear of unable to maintain performance, a fear of hesitating to die and feeling uncomfortable. There is 7 monster in this project. These monsters emerge from my feelings and then express through their action along with me. Example, The monster that makes you feel uncomfortable will warp you up and make you feel queasy, and hard to breathe. This artwork can be used to take a photo in different situations depending on what feeling the user feel. On the back side, each monsters have its definition.

MY LITTLE WORKSPACE

This project is about creating my personal custom workspace. In this notebook, it has a monthly planner. On the back of the planner, each month have a different tree. On the front, It may look like ordinary calendar but There is a function on the way to mark a passed day by cutting the outlines of a birds on the calendar. Each bird represents me in each day. On weekend, a bird's action will be cheerful, which is flying and flapping its wings. On weekday, a bird's action will simple, example; sitting on the tree, and its size will be smaller than weekend's. On a special day, example; Valentines, Chinese New Year, religious day of Christian, Mother's day and Father's day, it has a special bird that express those day on the calendar. But the most special day ,which is my birthday (31Mar) and new year day (1Jan and 31Dec), the bird will biggest used the whole spaces on that day.

When I take a note about my homework, I always forget that which work do I have to send first since I'm having a hard time remembering my teacher's name and which class did they teach. So I designed my own homework memo that use teacher's face to help me remember them. I use post-it paper to take note because it may be messy if I have to erase it to write another work.

The last page of this notebook contain post-it, that used in homework memo, and a post-it that printed a clock on the back side. The clock is use in organizing my time in each day. It have been printed on the back because when I flip it up and closed the book, I still can see the clock.
